

Introduction to the Foreign Service Officer Selection Process and Test

Location:

Weill Hall (Ford School)

Room:

Betty Ford Classroom (Room 1110, first floor)

Description: Introduction to the Foreign Service Officer Selection Process and Test: Diplomat in Residence Drew Mann will review the path to a career as a Foreign Service Officer, and provide detailed information about each step in the process. Are you considering whether to take the Foreign Service Test? Trying to figure out the best time of year (October, February, or June) to do so? Curious about the format of the test, what subjects are covered, how to prepare, and test-taking strategies? If so, be sure to attend this session. Students who are considering applying to the Department of State are encouraged to contact Mr. Mann directly atdrewmann@umich.edu [1]. This program is part of U-M International Career Pathways. Sponsored by the Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy.
