Description: The International Student Lunch Conversation is a casual time and space for international students to make friends, eat food, and talk about how it is to be an international student in the U.S. and at the University of Michigan. The group will address a specific topic each time, such as adjusting to the U.S., getting to know American culture, and dealing with academic stress, but is also open for students to bring their own topic. Students may drop in at any time for the dates below and free lunch will be provided. This Lunch Conversation is co-sponsored by CAPS Counseling and Psychological Services.

While walk-ins are welcome at the event, early registration is appreciated so we can better prepare for the event. Register Here.
