

Tax Form Deadline Information for F-1 and J-1 Students and Scholars

Nonresidents for tax purposes have two deadlines, April 18 and June 15, depending on their circumstances. Review the deadlines section of Non-Residents for Tax Purposes [1] to see which deadline applies to you. Tax residents have only one deadline, April 18, 2017. If you will not be able to mail (or, for tax residents, e-file) your tax form by your deadline, you can extend your deadline to file your form, but you must still pay any taxes you owe by the deadline.

EXTENSIONS: If April 18th is your deadline and you cannot finish in time to mail your tax form by April 18th, you can mail a form to extend your deadline. This is an extension of time to mail your form, not an extension of time to pay. See Requesting an Extension of Time to File [2] for more information and links to extension forms.

TAX RESIDENCY: If you are not sure whether you are a tax resident or nonresident, read Residency and Non-Residency for Tax Purposes [3].

TAX TREATIES: Remember that even if some or all of your U.S. income is exempt from taxes because of a tax treaty, you are still required to report that income on a tax return form. Read the deadlines section of Non-Residents for Tax Purposes [1] for information about the forms that are required for different kinds and amounts of income.
